

Do not believe anyone blindly | Bedtime Stories For Adults Read Aloud

One of the frogs lived on the shore of the lake. There was a snake and the snake was very friendly with that frog.

One day the snake wandered somewhere in search of prey. No prey was available for the snake. It was very tiring and came to the side of the lake.

At that moment the frog that came out of the lake looked at the snake and said, "Friend, why are you so tired today? What happened to you?". Heard that passionately.

The snake that saw the frog suddenly had an idea. I'm more hungry now. The snake, thought to catch the frog and have it as its prey, suddenly split its mouth and jumped to catch the frog.

The frog escaped in its grip and said, "Friend! What sport is this, and why do you think to catch me and swallow me?". Asked angrily.

When the snake heard this, it said, "Frog friend! Forgive me! I feel pity when I see you. I'm starving without getting any prey.

That's why I'm going to catch you and eat you."
The frog was shocked to hear that. The mind swelled at the thought of the serpent's betrayal of faith.

For a while it was deep in thought, "I must somehow escape from this danger". Immediately it looked at the snake and said "Dude do you think your hunger will be quenched if you eat only me?. Of course you will feel hungry again.

So I will go into the lake and pick up two of my friends. Eat me along with them." The snake's mind was amused.

"That's how a friend should be!. Call your friends right away!. I'm even more hungry now. I'm waiting on the shore."

The frog jumped into the lake and drowned somewhere as it escaped and survived. Decided not to get acquainted with this deadly friend anymore.

Justice: Do not associate with people who are poisonous like snakes.