

The Starfish and Chittu's Dream

One day, Chittu the sparrow was flying along the seashore and saw a Starfish washed up on the sand, struggling to breathe.

Chittu tried to pick it up with its tiny beak to put it back in the ocean. A big crab nearby laughed and said, "There are thousands of starfish washed up here. What difference does it make if you save just one?"

Chittu quietly threw the starfish back into the waves and replied, "I may not change everything, but for that one starfish, the whole world has changed!"

Moral: Even a small act of kindness can change someone's world.